RSN Access System

The platform should work as an invite based network.

There are three entry paths.

Existing user
Users who already have an account can log in using:

Google login
Email magic link

New user with invite code
A new user can join if they have:

Email address
Valid invite code

New user without invite code
Users without an invite code should click Request to Join, which leads to a separate page.

Request to Join page

The form should include:

Full Name
Email Address
LinkedIn Profile
Why do you want to join?

When the user submits the form:

Store the information in the database
Create a request entry with status Pending
Show the request in the admin panel for manual review
Send confirmation email to the user

Confirmation email

Hi [Name],

Thanks for requesting to join RSN.

We manually vet all users to ensure the best experience for everyone.

You will hear from us soon.

Have a great day.

The RSN Team

Admin panel

There should be a section where admins can review join requests.

Each request should display:

Name
Email
LinkedIn
Reason for joining
Submission date

Admin actions:

Accept
Decline

If accepted

Change status to Accepted
Send welcome email with onboarding link

Welcome email

Hi [Name],

We have reviewed your request and would be happy to welcome you to RSN.

Hi [Name],

We have reviewed your request to join RSN.

At this stage we cannot accept your request. We are still growing and developing the platform and network, and when we expand further we may send you an invitation.

If you do not want to receive a future invitation, click here:
[Opt out link]

Thank you for your understanding.

Important logic

Invite code signup should bypass manual review.
Request to Join submissions go to admin vetting.
Each request must store status: Pending, Accepted, Declined.

One thing I would add, strategically.

You should also store who invited whom. That becomes extremely valuable later because RSN can map the network graph. That is how you later understand who the real community builders are.

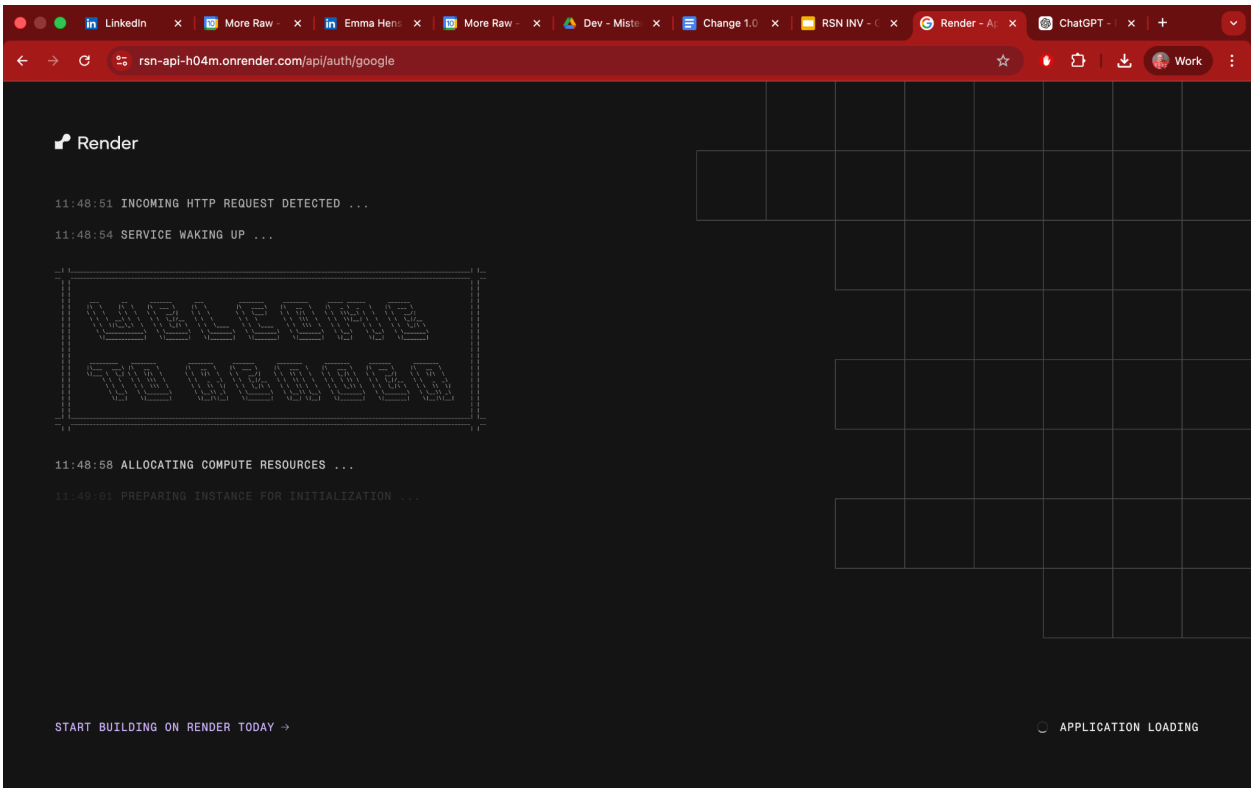
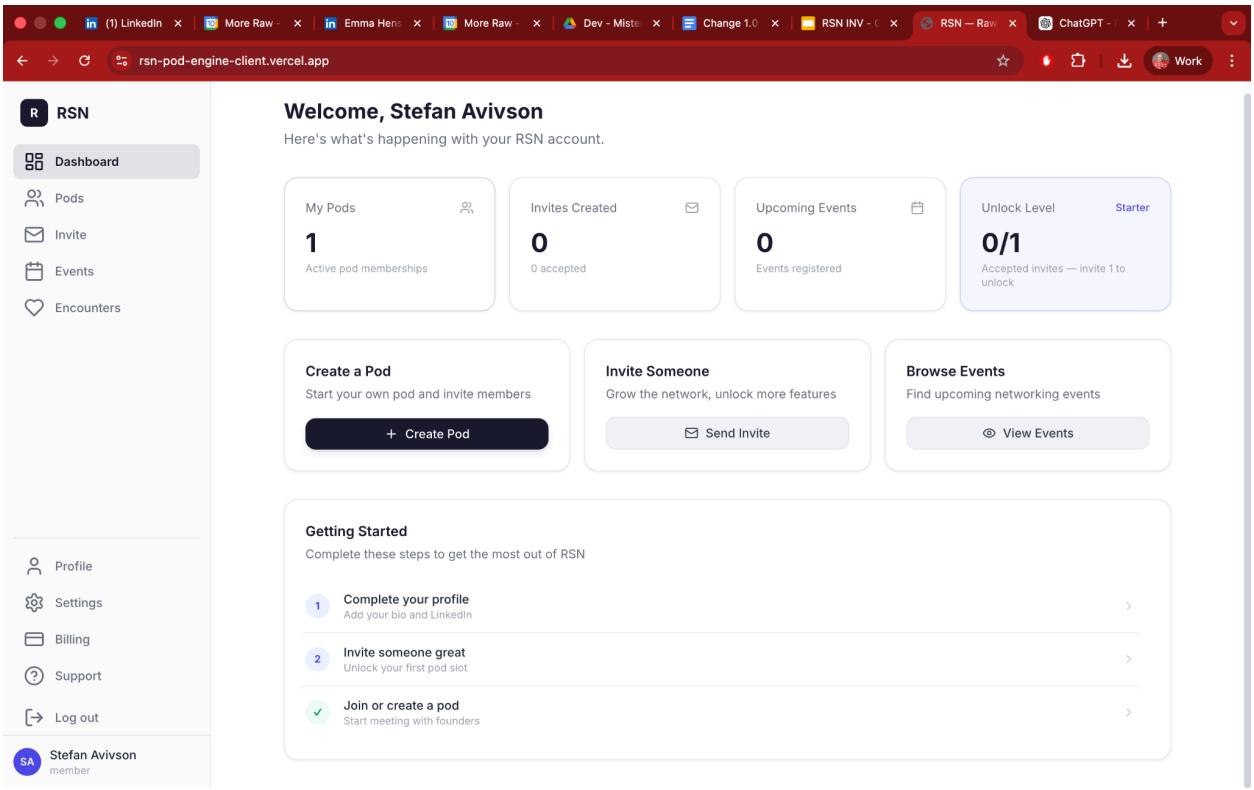
When logging in, this shows - I assume, that wont be a case, when we “go live” :)



Dashboard

Use the right logo :)



BILLING should be under Settings - not stand alone.

Also in regards to billing in general, it's a multifaceted price model, where we will be testing, developing business models over time - the one that is currently, is fine -

Users are now (and there will be more of course over time)
SUPER ADMIN "core staff" - you, me, shradha are core staff currently.
ADMIN - "normal staff"
Founding Members (Always free members for life)
Free users (can be kept free for a longer period of time, by inviting enough people - so that should be levered onto such Paid users ($19 per month or $199 for a year - this will will also change over time)

Profile page:

I cannot upload picture:

I cannot change my email
I should also be able to add my whatsapp/phone number
The dominant factor is to take the information from linkedin - the question is how - so you won't need to fill out your information, but just amend it - also - we need this for matching etc...
